Now Hear This...

This is a very important announcement—please listen carefully!

You, the students of Heritage Hall, are a very fortunate group of people. You attend a school that offers an ensemble of fantastic aspects: a wide array of closely related students, a friendly and caring faculty, top quality facilities, all founded on a rich base of - heritage.

For instance . . .

SUMMER MEMORIES -

It can never be said that the students of Heritage Hall spent a boring summer. If there was a happening place to be this summer you can bet that Heritage Hall students were there.

Many of our students left for far away islands to lie on the sand and to soak in the sun. Others stayed a little bit closer to home and could be found skiing the days away on a lake in Eastern Oklahoma. Then there were the many people who found themselves lining up to take jobs in local restaurants, stores, or other places of business.

The best part about the summer was undoubtedly the feeling of freedom. You were free to do as you pleased—from lying by the pool, perfecting your tan, to browsing through the malls on shopping sprees. The weeks and week-ends just ran together and it didn't seem to matter if it was Friday or Saturday night. Every night and day would be spent with friends and there was always a party that had to be attended. There were concerts, pool parties, and movies that had to be seen, but the best part about summer was no matter how late you stayed out, you didn't have to get up early the next morning. You could sleep in almost every day and then if you got up, you didn't have to do anything, unless you had a job. It didn't take much to have fun in the summer. All you needed were your friends, a car, and a place to be.

The summer meant different things for all of us. For some of us our job was the center point of our vacation. For others, our friends and family were who we spent the majority of our time with. No matter how you spent this summer, the one thing that was farthest from your mind was the thought of school.

IT'S OVER ALREADY?

NOT ALREADY! New students and their sponsors wonder why they are back so soon.

The summer of 1987 was a fun one for all, but as it came to a close, the students eagerly anticipated the beginning of school. There were new school wardrobes to buy and schedules to be fixed, and the football players began two-a-day practices.

For the rest of the students the first sure sign of school beginning was orientation. Freshmen had to learn their way around the upper school building and adjust to the new system. A highlight of the back-to-school events was the parking lot auction with the best space going for $185! If you didn't have a lot of cash to spend, you could always go for the assigned spaces in the boondocks.

Finally, there was the infamous used book sale—the long lines and the long waits that always seem to take your last real day of freedom. But, in the end, it was inescapable: we had to leave the summer behind, put our noses to the grindstone again, and go back to school. However, the football games, the dances, and all the other good times always seem to make it worthwhile.

48 HOURS

"Free at last! Free at last! Thank God almighty, I am free at last!" was the joyous cry over the teeming mass of people. The voice came not from the great Martin Luther King, Jr. but from a very relieved Charger one Friday at 3:10pm. When the sacred two-day rest has commenced, every minute of freedom is precious.

Heritage Hellians obey the moral imperative for good times during the 48-hour cease-fire by creating fun of all kinds. While Lower and Middle School kids dash to movies and slumber parties, the high schooler's weekend consists of everything from taking in the latest epic films to a steady job to keep some spare cash handy. School sporting events usually draw a lot of student attention and support. If either Oklahoma university is scoring at home one weekend, one could expect a lot of blue and gold mingling with the red and white or orange and black. For the less fortunate, excessive schoolwork chains some to studying at home. Excursions to various lakes are also popular. The main order of duty, however, is to sow one's wild oats (syn.: party, carouse, romp, make merry, live it up). A variety of parties and gregariousness among cliques provides relaxation, fellowship, and a non-academic atmosphere. Boredom on a weekend is not widespread and is frowned upon.

When the lights are out and the party's over, the Sunday Seclusion begins as Chargers complete assignments and prepare for resuming battle formation the following Monday. Yet another week of intellectual expansion begins, with the students' main motivation being the burning up of time until the NEXT weekend. Students, indeed, do not live day-by-day, but break-by-break!

TRADITIONS . . . BIG SIS/ LITTLE SIS AND INITIATION

The first week of the school year started off in curiosity, as the freshmen and sophomore girls pondered about the identity of their anonymous senders of gifts. At the conclusion of three days of a constant bombardment of presents and clues, the final identity of each girl's Big Sis was revealed. Thus, at 12:35 on the final day of mystery, each Little Sis sought out a junior or senior girl sporting a bow which coincided with her own, and the beginning of a year-long sisterhood commenced with the traditional out-to-lunch celebration.

Strewn with dippity-doo, hairnets, kneehighs, and an assortment of night wear, the freshmen girls reluctantly participated in the annual initiation by the Senior girls of '88. Their embarrassment peaked during the "Freshmen Follies," when in front of the entire student body, each girl had to saunter across the stage to music. The freshmen boys were hardly overlooked, and at even the most unsuspecting times the guys of '88 were poised at the chance of embarrassing the youngest males in the upper school. It was another exciting year of the traditional heckling of members of the freshman class.

For sixteen long, grueling years you wait, bumming rides and feeling low ... then independence day finally arrives. Finally, the state trooper offers his cold heartless congratulations and climbs out of your car; you are, at last, a licensed driver.

At Heritage Hall, the kind of car you drive says a lot about you. By looking at the Upper School parking lot, one can tell a lot about the typical Charger. The variety of automobiles reveals Heritage Hall's touch of class, crass, and that flair for self-expression.

To the high schooler, "wheels" are crucial to one's existence. Many students take a great deal of pride in their personal transportation, not only because it reflects a personal statement, but because it is an important investment. Most Chargers take pride in their cars — and it shows

Fashion (fash-ee-uh) is a fashionable or style-conscious people's general term for the elite. Webster defines fashion just as an incoherent passerby would if visiting Heritage Hall for a passing people's styles. Some people suffer as if in a garage and some things such as accessories are always in style. Accessories were a must in making you style really stand out. This fall Gold continues to be the classic touch to even outfit. Leather boots, both ankle and knee length were worn daily as much as the green leaves started changing color. Belts and scarves were wrapped and tied never, not possible. On the sidelines continued to be passed on fingers around school purses. Leather, the bigger the better, were hung over shoulders. The fall. Many people were behind the round wire-framed attitude glasses. The season's skirts fell from ankles and down also on mid-thigh. The big men on campus were in baggy jeans instead of Guessing the styles. The more tailored conservative look has been exploring the worn-out feeling fashions. More and more people dress to stay. ## BROTHERHOOD OF MAN

On October 18 a very special event took place. A Benefit Concert was held in an effort to raise money for the newly established Emergency Assistance Fund for Heritage Hall families under financial stress. According to the music teacher and coordinator of the concert, Billy Lewis, "Everyone wanted to help out nobody knew how. We felt that a benefit concert with a theme of brotherhood and patriotism was the perfect vehicle to raise funds." Mrs. Lewis also added, "Not only did we reach our financial goal, but it brought the three divisions of Heritage Hall closer together, as well as the faculty. The response from the patrons has been fantastic. The event left everybody feeling good about themselves."

Approximately 240 students and faculty from all three divisions participated in the show.

All in attendance donated openly and in the end $3012 were collected and presented to the Emergency Relief Fund Committee consisting of John Powell, Carmen Clay, Caradith Cravens, Eddie Barnes, Linda Cheatham, and Pat Czerwinski. One thing is certain: The performance was something no one will ever forget!

YOU GOT THAT SPIRIT?

This year's Charger fans had with no doubt, the most spirit of any group that's come before. This year's spirit-raising activities included caravans from Johnnies to all the home games, a bonfire before the Homecoming game, and, of course, pep rallies.

This year's Casady game pep rally included a junior "Wheel of Fortune" skit in which the ultimate winner was a Heritage Hall

Charger and the loser was a Casady football player. It was also the first time at which the new co-ed varsity cheerleading squad was seen in action by the entire school. The squad demonstrated acrobatic and aerial stunts.

With the combined efforts of the fans and cheerleaders, the Chargers will never lack spirit!

WINNING SPIRIT

This year Homecoming was filled with a variety of activities organized by the Student Council. The week ended in a grand finale with the announcement of a new Homecoming Queen and a victory over Fairview.

Student Council answered the cries of many students by bringing back FLOATS - root beer floats, that is, or better known as "black cows." Four brave students frantically tried to be the first to consume six of these black cows.

Another new event to Homecoming week was bowling. Competitors were assigned to teams with their classmates and during lunch hour they headed to the bowling alley to strike down all ten pins.

Of course, the infamous Ugly Man contest returned but with a few changes. Besides the collection of pennies, each contestant had to demonstrate his special talent, model his favorite swimwear, and be interviewed by Student Council president, Brent Johnson.

Homecoming would not be complete without a dance. This year's theme was "At The Hop" and students danced away the evening to 50's tunes. "I thought the idea of a sock hop was great, and I had the best time!"

T-BIRDS AND TIARAS

On the night of October second, 1987, the life of one lucky girl was changed forever. It all began September 18th at a pep assembly where the names of the candidates for Homecoming Queen were announced. Those selected as candidates were: Christen Conger, Kristen Gumerson, Marni McCown, Stephanie Schmidt, Nicole Shapard and Lisa Trice. The candidates were selected by Student Council, the Lettermen, Honor Society and Mu Alpha Theta. When asked about being a candidate, Christen Conger said, "Being nominated as a candidate for Homecoming Queen was an honor as well as a special moment that I will never forget." Candidate Lisa Trice said, "When my name was called, I was more surprised and excited than I have ever been." The candidates then had to go through weeks of not knowing the outcome. On October first, the entire school voted for the queen. Finally on the night of October second, the moment arrived. The candidates rode in original 1956 Thunderbirds donated by patrons. After the girls arrived at the field and were met by their escorts, they began the long walk out to their positions for the final outcome. Finally, Mr. Allie made the announcement that "The Homecoming Queen for 1987-88 is Christen Conger."

This had to be the perfect ending for a perfect evening.

The finer things really did shine through on May seventh, when the juniors and seniors rallied for The Prom. In September, the junior class officers reserved Quail Creek Country Club for the location of the prom. Chosen before Christmas, the theme was "The Finer Things" and the colors were navy and pink. By Christmas, the juniors booked "The Stars", a popular local group that specializes in classic rock. Party Pics were notified in January that they were to produce not only the informal, but also the formal pictures. Spring Break was a time for contracting with the florist, planning the menu and choosing imprinted picture frame key rings as party favors.

From the other spectrum, in January, most girls start thinking about the style and color they want their dress to be. By March, they've changed their mind about it, and have either bought it, or have made plans to have it made. Next thing on the list is to start looking for a date and start dieting. By April, you've made your date, figured out who the two of you are going with, and already given up on your diet. Finding shoes to match is next. Two weeks before the prom, you get your hair trimmed. Your date reserves a tux with matching tie and cummerbund. By now, you have decided to rent a Winnebago, limo, or just take someone's car. A week and a half before the prom, inevitably, you fight with your date. So you stop eating and start tanning to alleviate the tension. The week of the prom, you resolve the problems, or find a new date, make dinner reservations, get your nails done, and spend hours in a tanning bed.

THE FINER THINGS

Finally, the big day arrives! You sleep until 2 p.m., and go to have your hair styled. After relaxing, you start getting ready with a steamy shower. Slowly, you apply your make-up, slide into your dress, and pearls. The doorbell rings and you realize you forgot film for the camera.

After countless advisory and lunch periods taken up with meetings, the junior class officers finally stepped back with a sigh of relief, and let the evening take its course.

We Feel Fine!

"It's the end of the world as we know it ... AND WE FEEL FINE!" Our song blared over the P.A. system in the upper school, inviting the seniors to step into a new world. Did we feel fine? Yes and no. As 3:10 ended classes, it ended everything we'd ever known. The seniors of '88 are scattering all over the United States to begin our new lives as college students. We may never see many of our friends again ... unless it's at our reunion. Will we have changed as much as the teachers predicted in their Senior Banquet skit?

Moving into the future is an adventure. But it's hard to leave behind a place where you've shared so much with so many. It's a strange feeling to be excited and sad ... to cry and laugh. But the prospect of college tures us. We all know college will be at least as good as high school has been. After all, we have an attitude of success given to us by Heritage Hall. We're sure with all the confidence of a new graduate that everything we touch in our lives will turn to gold. HHall has taught us to be winners and we know we'll go on winning.

So with more confidence and less fear, we will accept the diploma we have worked so hard for and move on to the next challenge. Our high school world is ending ... but we feel just fine.

GONNA DRESS YOU UP!

Sometimes if you were to look around the Heritage halls, you might wonder what kind of strange people attend. Many days throughout the year became dress-up days to mock certain rival schools for athletic events or various adventures. This year there was Casady "Cone a Clone" Day, Deer Hunting Day (vs. Deer Creek), and plenty of blue and gold painted faces at football and basketball games, including the infamous Senior S.W.A.T. team and the rowdy referees. As the Sociology classes studied class systems, those chosen as outcasts were seen wearing shower caps, sombreros, and pig noses, while the upper class flaunted their crowns.

The Golden Years

The countdown began on the first day back from Christmas vacation. Someone in the Senior hall shouted, "144 days left!" It was finally 1988 — our year! Seniors '88! The old Lower School chant was revived: "We are cool. We are great. We are Seniors '88!" The long and winding road of our dance hall days was near the end, and we suddenly realized the extent of our travels. For so long we had sped toward the emancipation of graduation, now we tried to slam on the brakes in an effort to savor the last precious moments of the journey. Where had the time gone? Had we really painted that bridge four times already? Before the final crash, our lives flashed before our eyes and filled the last semester with a lot of reflection of hysterical nostalgia, remembering all the many wonderful years, all the close friends, all the good times.

Hey, do you remember the HH T Ball team (and the right field anrpile) the HH Cougars soccer team ... Mrs. Blackerby "shaking your teeth til they rattle all the way down the hall" ... classes at Westridge Hills Church ... the move to the main campus Lower School building ... space-ship erasers

A Glance Into The Future

Where will you be ten years from now? Successful executive for a Fortune 500 Company? Published author vacationing on the advance from your first movie sale? Manager of the neighborhood McDonalds? You have probably planned your future, but have you ever wondered what the rest of your classmates will be up to?

Kevin will be assigned to the cast of the TV show "The Adams Family Returns" to play the part of Lurch. Doug B. will open a chain of bage shoppes which will actually be a fake front for his gambling operations and South American Import Business. Steve C. will become popular on the coaching circuit but will be repeatedly fired from his coaching jobs for his slanderous remarks towards the ethnic and minority member players on his teams. Christ will be a ski instructor in Crested Butte. Richard C. will be the new driver of the Monster Truck "Bigfoot" and be regularly seen at state fairs driving over lines of Corvettes. Christen will be the president of the Matel Toy Company's "Barbie Doll" division making millions by marketing the "Barbie Homecoming Queen" and "Ken High School Football Player" dolls. Collin will have developed a way to interface human beings with home computers, but while he is interfaced with his computer vandals will brake into his home and permanently erase him from both computer and human memory. Then he will live in the world of "TRON". Jon will finally be kicked out of home by Jackie and Bob and title cage match against Frank. David F. and Emily will be married with six kids, living in pink condo in Key West, Florida. Mike and Andrea will be seen as regular T.V. stars on the series "Divorce Court." Scot Stephens will barely graduate from college and after a few years of sportscasting will host his own call-in sports talk show called "Sports with Scot." Brent Johnson will graduate from Stanford, take over the Nike shoe corporation, and then go on to make his living by winning the world's great marathon races. David S. after many hard years of practice, will finally make the PGA tour. In a complete stroke of luck, Stewart will beat Greg Norman by a 200-yard shot and win the Masters. Mitch McKinnon will become president of the SPCA and will actively campaign for the saving of Opossums. Lance McDaniel will grow up and do whatever he wants to.

make a new home in the back of the "Ranchero." Stephanie A. will sell junk jewelry at a thrift shop. Kyle Dixon will travel the world singing with his band, "The Flintstones." Tara will sell her voice for canned laughter. Peter will be a Pro-tennis player and Steve M. will be playing football with the Chicago Bears. Trey, after being shot down over Central America in his G--4 business jet, will be miraculously rescued by Frank and his band of arms dealers. Chris Mock will buy a hearse, paint it psychedelic colors, and aimlessly drive across the nation in search of Nirvana. Lisa, after divorcing Doug Atwood because he couldn't support her with the income from "That's Entertainment" will fall in love with a poor man and marry him anyway. Blake will marry his high school sweetheart, have a nice family and be voted "Dad of the Year." David T. will become the first human tab animal but lose all his jobs due to lack of sufficient brain matter for testing. Tom will flunk out of journalism school, but end up writing for Rolling Stone Magazine anyway. However, while covering a concert by Wre, he'll be killed in a "performance art" accident. Kristin will be a Gorgeous Lady of Wrestling (G.L.O.W.) wrestler and fight in the

Time Goes By

Time Goes by
Sure knows how to fly
Takes no thought
As it passes right by you

Smiles weren't so uncommon
The sun and moon were warm and Though storm clouds came those same Clouds went

We were younger then Didn't care why or when
We were living for the moment

Old times seem
Just like yesterday
No reason those times

Should stand in our way

Oh how I cherish
Those memories of the past
But I know those things done
In true love will last

And when we bid
This world farewell
What will remain
Only time will tell

Time doesn't walk . .

Time goes by

— lyrics by Jerry Johnson

Keeping In The Groove

Whether it was taking SAT's or ACT's, keeping up grades, attending college meetings, participating in activities, or just plain keeping "in the groove" of things, the Juniors always found themselves busy.

Raising money for the prom was the main objective for the class of '89. The fund-raising process was kicked-off September 18th. This was the date of the annual HH-Casady football game Balloon-o-grams and "Heritage Republic" t-shirts were sold to promote school spirit. Other fund-raisers included the Senior auction, a poinsettia sale, and a Christmas bake sale.

Next on the list of things to do was taking SAT's and ACT's. The college selection process was beginning and most found standardized testing a good place to start. Students were seen several Saturday mornings at various locations taking these tests which would decide whether or not they went to college at all.

Besides the homework, term papers, and extracurricular activities which took every minute of spare time they had, most juniors agreed that it was a terrific year. However, the class of '89 looks forward to their senior year. After all, that's 11 down and only 1 to go!

Sophomores:

N.-Sophos (Wise) + Mōros (Foolish)

The tension had been building. After a freshman year filled with closed study halls, initiations and lunch duty, the class of '90 returned to Heritage Hall as Sophomores! At last, the real memones of high school began. Life took on a whole different perspective for sophomores because they were faced with so many new opportunities. They were allowed to join the upperclassmen in the commons for study hall (as long as grades stayed up!). They got to leave campus for lunch and show up for parties with LESS disapproval from seniors. But, best of all, the sophomore year brought with it a new mobility as, one by one, the members of the Class of '90 reached their 16th birth days. After the driver's test which several class members took several times, many eager drivers anticipated a brand new car, ribbon attached, in the driveway. But, after sixteen years of bicycles, skateboards and rides, few were even disappointed to find themselves with the old family car or permission to drive mom's car.

"I WILL SURVIVE"

"I will survive!" This was quite a familiar saying in the freshman halls. Whether they were being ridiculed by the upperclassmen or doing the menial tasks of cleaning the lunchroom and the halls, the freshmen somehow survived the transition from Middle School to Upper School.

Initiation didn't help make the process any easier. The freshman girls were dragged out of bed at 5:00 in the morning and hauled off to school in what they had worn to bed. This year's class got the privilege of not only singing to the senior guys, but also giving the entire school a fashion show in which the latest in diapers and hairnets were displayed. The boys were initiated at various times throughout the year. Their initiation included everything from singing at pep rallies to performing at basketball games.

The freshmen participated in the annual Senior Auction put on by the Junior Class. Students were allowed to "buy" their favorite senior guy/girl and go to lunch with them.

Although being a freshman is a big adjustment in a student's life, most agreed it was as rewarding as it was challenging. You will probably find most freshmen looking forward to next year and saying, "I survived!"

Who's The Boss?

The last year of middle school is generally one of the most enjoyable grades. A typical weekend for these students was going to a football game, movies or a party and then sleeping over at a friend's house.

Teachers spent the year preparing the students for the responsibility of high school. This included more homework, harder subjects and more peer pressure.

Some eighth graders commented that being the oldest and bossing sixth graders around was great, but the "tons of homework" was not so great. Robin Richardson stated, "I liked being Pep Club Secretary."

When asked what she enjoyed about this year, KC Clifford said, "The eighth grade is the best year so far because you're more respected by the teachers."

The Science Club built an observation deck for birds outside by the pond. They also have an annual Science Club field trip. The eighth grade picnic and Sixth Flags trip were eagerly anticipated by all the students.

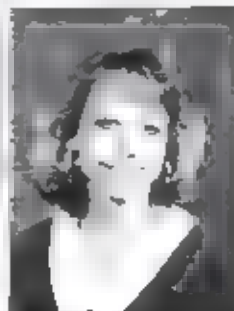

The majority of the students were looking forward to high school even though they were a little scared about initiation and about being a Freshman. In spite of this, the class ended the year with lots of confidence. Commented Fredri Dahr, "Heritage Hall eighth grade provides students with a background of knowledge that will help them in later life."

Life isn't always a bowl of cherries once a student reaches the seventh grade. Seventh graders are no longer the babies of middle school, but they aren't the top dog either. Teachers start giving lots more homework as well as lots of new responsibilities.

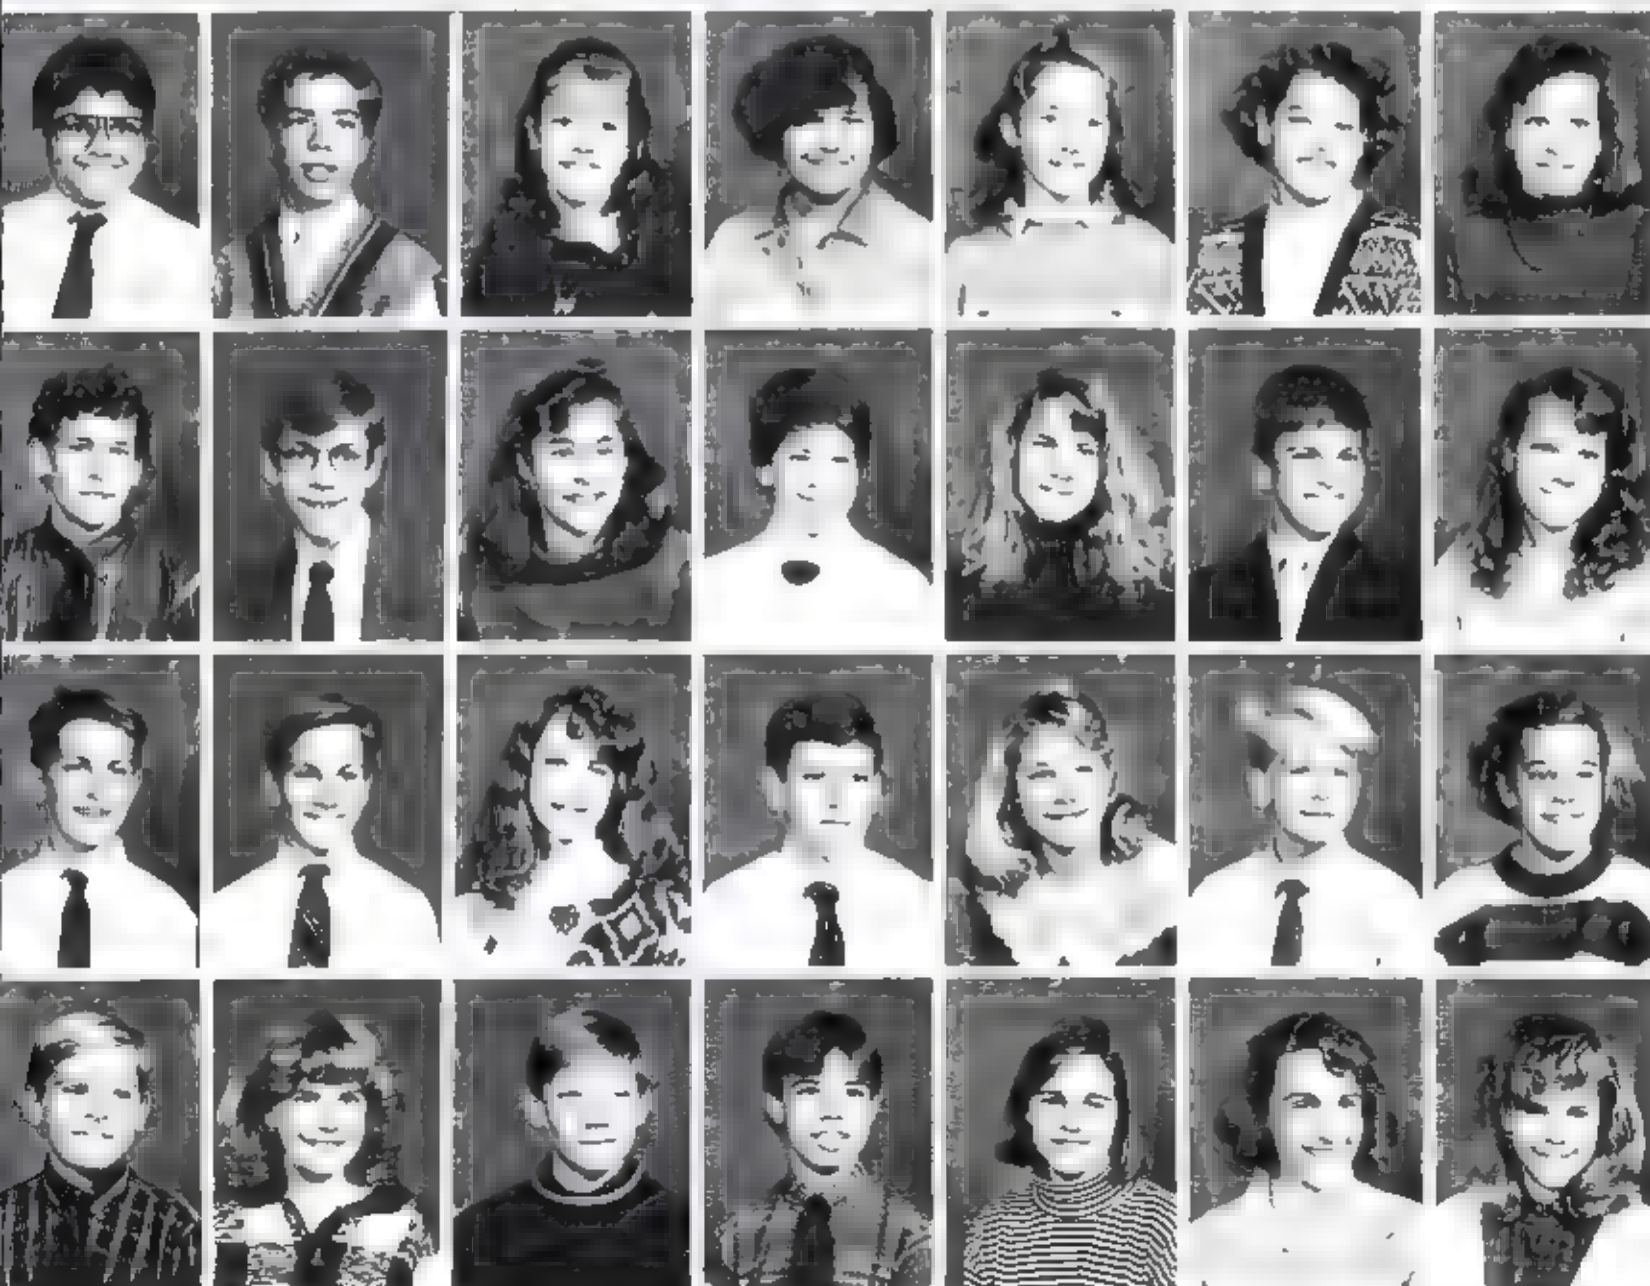

Despite all of this, seventh graders still had fun. They were allowed to do new things such as being in Pep Club and going to the Pep Club dance. They also had their own basketball, football and wrestling team and were able to try out for cheerleading. Although they did not have to do a science project, they were able to participate in the Engineering Fair, which Mrs.

Spradling took them to. The seventh graders participated in most of the middle school activities. They brought cookies and candies for the prison inmates. They went to the Children's Hospital. They helped with the Harvest II food drive and the get-acquainted party. They also participated in Krazy Characters Day and the Middle School Olympics. Overall, the seventh graders were very active in the "middle school happenings" and had a good time while doing so.

After making it through all the pains of being in the middle of the road with minimal damage, this class of '93 will definitely make their mark when they are top dog next year.

A Step Ahead

Steve Saunders

Moving into a new school, or just changing locations, can be an exciting and also frightening occasion. New sixth graders find themselves faced with having to walk from class to class instead of having the security of one teacher. Students are also presented with more classes, harder work, and more freedoms. Freedoms consisting of having their own lockers, having more free time, and having a shorter walk to lunch. It's also nice to be a year older and to have even more responsibilities.

The disadvantages, luckily, are only few. Sixth graders find themselves once again at the bottom of the heap socially at the new school. Students are also expected to take finals, those ever-infamous, only semi-important, extra-long tests that they will fear for the rest of their natural lives

"Fifth grade is a fun grade to be in. You get to go to Goddard for a week and it's lots of fun. I have Mrs. Holloway. She's a great teacher to have for fifth grade because you get to play kickball and we get to play other games. In P.E. we do this dance. When you see it you may think it's silly at first, but when you finish it, it turns out to be pretty fun. When you go to Goddard in the fifth grade, the lessons they have are really fun and when you get ready to come home you may not want to leave, because of all the fun you had.

— Ashley Fors

Fifth grade is a learning and growing experience for everyone. This is the year in which many young people start changing in several ways, including learning to deal with newly gained independence and responsibilities. On moving up to fifth grade, every kid for the first time in his or her life, gets to experience what it is like to "rule the school." Along with the duties of moving up, these new fifth graders learn what it is like to be role models for younger students. Hours of learning to square dance with Mrs. Holloway, countless sunny afternoon kickball games, and saving all you shoeboxes for weekly diaramas are all memories everyone cherishes of fifth grade.

Disney World, baseball, and swimming were all things that fourth graders found themselves doing to help keep busy before the new year began- anything to make the summer last! Unfortunately, it didn't last and on September 8th, cars loaded up with students who were looking forward to the new experiences and privileges of fourth grade.

As the school year wore on, the daily routine became a habit and special activities became more frequent. Beginning in October, the animal unit in science was topped with a field trip to the zoo. The fourth graders also participated in music programs, special P.E. days, and the long-awaited 89ers day in April. This fun-filled day included the dancing of the Virginia Reel and a delicious meal from a special menu. Dressed as pioneers, the fourth grade settlers had their own land run, in which they tried to stake the best part of the lower school playground.

Ah, the good ole days! How we long to be young and carefree again. But, as in all things, life moves on. However, we have the memories of the people and places that we will cherish forever.

Let The Truth Be Known!

The Heritage Hall third graders began their legal careers by performing the case of B B Wolf and the Three Little Pigs in front of the upper school. This mock trial even included a participant from the upper school, John Bartley. Justice was upheld when the truth came out about B B Wolf committing the crime. In contrast, spooks and goolies were present at the wonderfully horrifying lower school haunted house. Screams of terror were heard as Heritage Hall students made their way through the scary chambers.

On The Go!

This year the second grade class was most likely to be seen out on the highways and byways of OKC. No, they weren't hitchhiking but were in route to many of the businesses around the city. The purpose of these outings was to give the second graders a chance to learn how different businesses operate on a daily basis. These explorations included a visit to the Safeway Bakery where the second graders were given a demonstration of the baking process. The bakery even provided them with hats to make the trip official and allowed the students to take home a loaf of freshly made bread.

Another trip enjoyed by our little explorers was one to the Post Office. After studying the fine art of letter writing, the group headed to the local post office to discover just how their letters would reach the right destination.

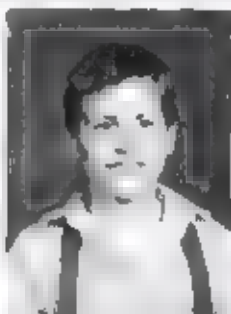

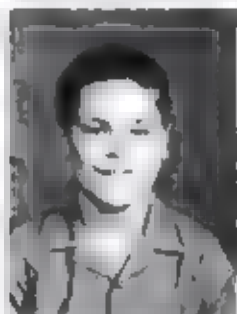

Now hear this: it may seem that the second grade class was never at school, but that is simply not true. Besides learning all their basic skills, the class was taught a special three week nutrition course by the American Dairy Association. The teachers were even required to do studying to fully understand the concepts before introducing the course to the second graders. It was the intention of the teachers to provide a basic knowledge of nutritional values to help the second graders to realize the importance of eating right.

The second graders were hard at work (when they weren't whizzing around the city) and had a great year overall. But there is one question ... where will these explorers be off to in the third grade?

Education Begins

Responsibility: a word which many people dread. Nevertheless, it is vital in the maturing process of every person. Responsibility is something first graders learn about for the first time in their lives. Aside from attending a full day of school, first graders had to contend with homework as well. (A first grader is expected to read, as well as learn, basic math concepts).

Along with responsibility, of course, come privileges. One privilege enjoyed by all was being able to walk to lunch every day and eat in the school cafeteria. Other privileges first graders liked were P.E. and recess.

This year, the three first grade classes were able to go on several field trips. Aside from going to the Children's Memorial Hospital, the first graders went to the zoo. They also made their annual trip to the Deer Creek Farm.

The highlight of the year, for many, was the Fun Fair held by all the first grade classes. The Fun Fair, held at the same time as the Oklahoma State Fair, was an event in which each first grade student brought an item he made from home, and the items were held on display. Some students brought food, which was eaten during a first-grade party.

The first graders went through a year of transition. They learned to work harder, and they learned hard work meant more privileges. Most importantly, they learned responsibility—responsibility which will stay with them the rest of their lives.

Learning

The life of an average five or six year old is very relaxed. He or she views school as merely a part-time babysitter. It's a time to dress up and a time to get away from parents for three or four hours a day. It may seem like a kindergartener doesn't learn anything, and kindergarten is, therefore, a waste of time. But in reality, the things learned in kindergarten are important lessons for the rest of our lives.

We learn to share. This is very important because people, no matter what age, find this difficult to do. We learn to get along with people. We learn to be creative. We learn to draw and use our imaginations. We learn to show and tell. We learn to listen when people are talking. Most importantly, we learn that a mid-afternoon nap is beneficial to all those involved. If you remember these important lessons learned in kindergarten, you are bound to be successful in life.

Class Of 2001

A day as a preschooler is never boring. Each day consisted of fun activities and also learning new and important skills. Even though they spent only half a day at school, they were able to use every minute to their advantage.

Daily activities included working on art projects, as well as learning the basics of reading, writing, and arithmetic. Teachers played an important role for the preschoolers by preparing them for adventures in the future.

Special days included food, parties, games, and fun. Halloween and Christmas parties were great for breaking up the daily routine. Even grandparents were invited to join the fun on Grandparents Day.

One of the favorite pastimes in preschool was working on art projects. Cutting and pasting construction paper into various shapes proved to be the most appropriate way to pass the school time.

Overall, the preschoolers had a fun year and made many new friends. But now hear this: watch out upper school- the class of 2001 is on its way.

Administration

When one thinks of Heritage Hall, he often thinks of the students and the faculty; however, behind the scenes are the administrators. From balancing the school's budget to managing the school's libraries, the tasks of the administration consist of a variety of jobs. Dr. David Goodsell summed up the administration as "It is our purpose to facilitate the education of our students." With so many jobs, the efforts of the individual is often overlooked. When asked about her job, Librarian Caradith Craven said, "I see my role in serving students and faculty as librarian as being a multi-faceted one. The day-to-day operations of the media center require that I serve as administrator, caretaker, teacher, catalyst, counsellor, and friend in developing and maintaining a media center that stimulates and enriches learning by providing resources and services." These overlooked heroes often don't receive much credit, but the satisfaction of the knowledge of a job well done is often enough.

A Way Of Life

Teaching at Heritage Hall is more than a full time job. The dedication of each faculty member makes it a way of life. Any average teacher at any average school can be seen spending a few late nights a week grading tests or making last minute improvements to tomorrow's lesson plans. But few schools ask their teachers for the level of commitment HH expects- and its teachers deliver. Every faculty member sponsors at least one activity, which requires not only extra time but the ability to truly care about the students and their needs. At any game or contest teachers are conspicuously rooting the Charges on to team or personal victory. Teachers contribute each year to the fundraising campaign, proving their faith in the HH education they and their colleagues provide.

May I Have Your Attention?

One of the many advantages of going to Heritage Hall is getting special attention, not only from faculty members, but also outside speakers and college representatives. Annually, informative alumni and or directors of admissions from colleges and universities visit, unloading pamphlets, applications, and information to indecisive juniors and seniors. To avoid monotonous all-school meetings, the student council brought in a variety of speakers. These speakers addressed the high schoolers about everything from the history of the constitution to the medical effects and problems of eating disorders. Kristie Mehring, nutritionist, informed the students of psychological causes and symptoms of anorexia nervosa and bulimia. Sharing some extreme circumstances and cures, the speaker also told many success stories of victims of these harmful diseases.

Career Seminar Day is always a big day around Heritage Hall. For the first time in Heritage history, we brought only H.H. alumni to inform interested students about their field. Juniors and seniors signed up in the Guidance Office for the opportunity not only to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of these chosen professions, but also to get out of class. The spectrum of careers presented was wide, ranging from Graphic Artist Carol Geist Shanahan of H.H. Class of '80, to Bryan Farha, Counseling Psychologist from the Class of '76, to the Class of '80 Accountant, John Hall, which appealed to all interests.

After reviewing everything Heritage Hall has done to help indecisive minds about everything from colleges to professions, it's no wonder Heritage graduates always seem to make something of themselves.

Lower School Life

Although every day is special in some way at the Lower School, there are a few days more special than others.

One of the more fun and colorful days is Halloween. Anyone who wants to wear a costume may participate in a "parade" down the hall. After singing Halloween songs, everyone goes back to their home rooms to find treats and tricks planned by homeroom mothers.

The day before Christmas break is usually special for two reasons. On this day there is nothing but movies to be viewed in the gym — no school work. This day is also special in that we bring Christmas cheer to patients in the Children's Hospital.

Valentines Day is another special day. Two or three days before the party day, the students decorate containers for the many Valentines they will receive. On this day, too, the Lower School Parents Association sells balloons which are given by secret admirers.

For the first time this year, the Lower School had "Popcorn Days" about twice a month. The children looked forward to these Friday events. Teachers took orders and mothers did the popping and "hopping" (delivering).

The fourth grade classes celebrated '89er day, dressing like early pioneers to participate in a "run" on a special section of the playground. There is also a pie contest which the teachers love to judge and a contest for the most creative, authentic pioneer dress.

The fifth graders spend a special five days at the Goddard Youth Camp in the Arbuckle Mountains. During the five day stay, the students walked different trails and listen to a naturalist and a geologist to learn about environmental interaction.

To end the year the students celebrate in many ways. Some classes plan parties, some go to the zoo or the Whitewater. But whatever the activity, these end-of-year parties are special days for all.

Out Of The Ordinary

Middle School special days began with Crazy Characters Day, just before Halloween. Everyone dressed up, had a costume parade, watched movies, and enjoyed the carnivals put on by each classroom. There was more to it than just fun and games, however. Together, these crazy students raised money for faculty members who had recently had family problems or needed a little financial aid.

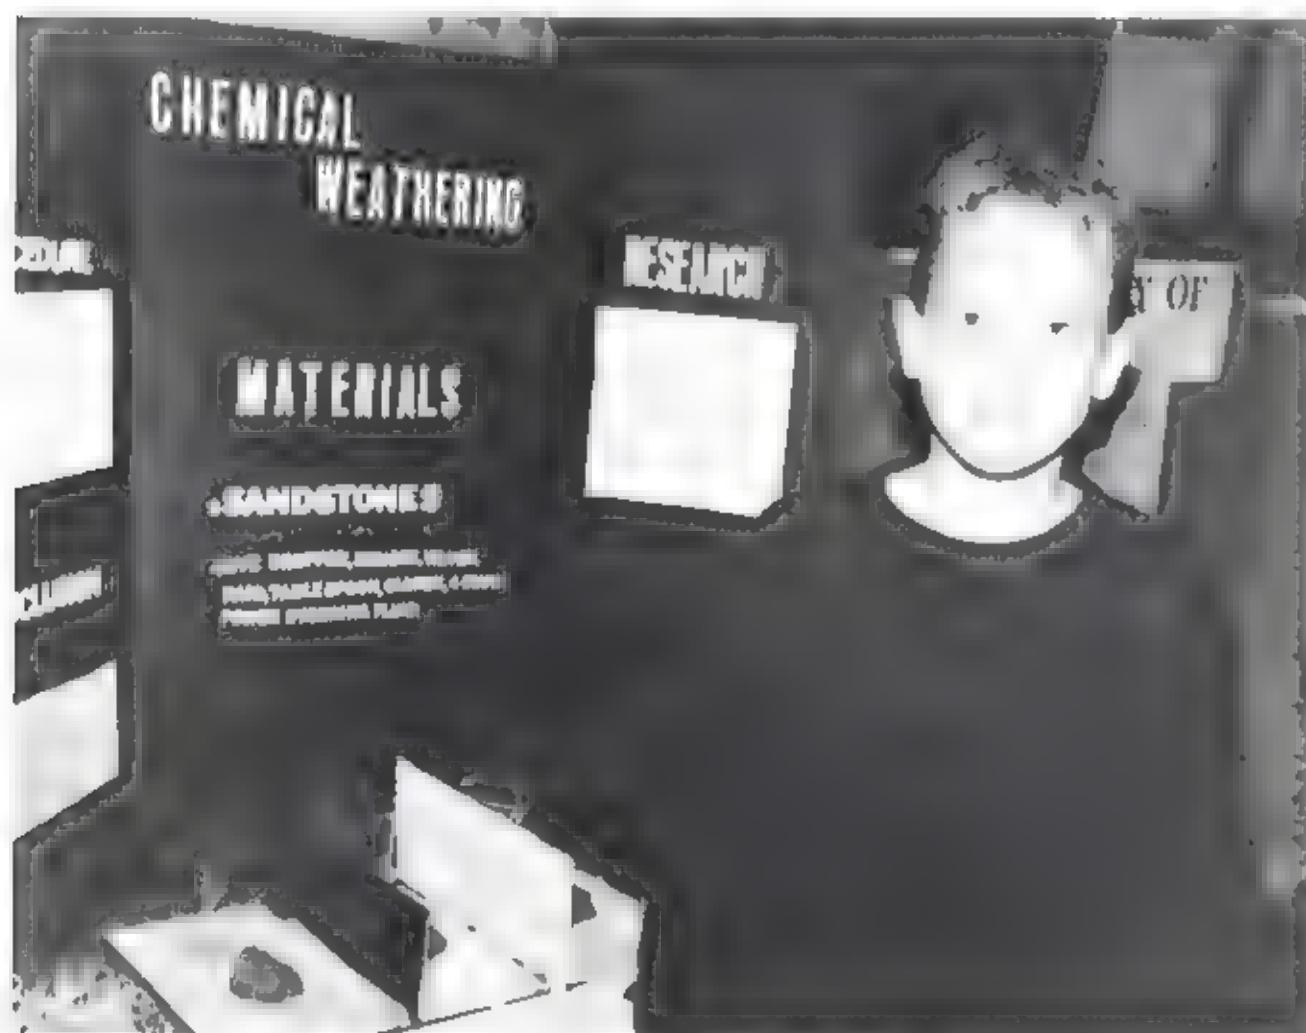

Next came the Science Fair in which students delved deep into the backs of their minds for the most original and creative idea for a science project. The better the experiment, the greater the chance of making it to regionals, held on February 18th and 19th.

Along with the beautiful spring weather came more activities, especially those held outdoors. On April 7, 8, and 9, was the Renaissance Fair, including a trip to the Medieval Fair in Norman. A few days later, April 11-15, was art week, and then the long-awaited Junior Olympics finally came. A whole day of outdoor events, total fun-in-the-sun mixed with some good hardy competitive spirit and attitude.

The year, now near a close, was finished off with the May Sports Awards, two music programs, and the final graduation. For some, it was the end of their middle school years and time to experience the unknown realms of high school life. For others, it was just another year down, and another step up in the process of life.

Ageless Memories

Across the years I can recall
My grandpa one way best of all

Always smiling, never frowns
Always looking up, never down

And every weekend OU had a home game
The weekend routine was always the same

Hi granpa, hi papa, How are you?
Come on baby girls, what shall we do?

Upon his high lap I would climb
Bringing along the same books everytime.

He read the books to my hearts content
He read the books to their thorough extent.

Then he'd close the books and say to me
It's bedtime for you my little sweet pea

I'd take to the covers like a big flash of light
And then papa would come in and kiss me goodnight.

As I look over my very short past
I know these memories will be the memories that last

My Afro In the Seventies

My afro in the seventies,
Stood exactly six inches tall,
It helped me gain lots of friends,
When I played basketball.

My afro in the seventies,
Went well with my long collars,
It got comments wherever I went,
And the Afro Sheen cost plenty of dollars

My afro in the seventies,
Looked so good with whatever I did wear,
It gave me one noticable talent,
The ability to slam-dunk with my hair.

Clouds
 Along the bright blue horizon,
 They lie at rest.
 Sailing with the breeze,
 Always at their best.

Imagination runs wild
 Creating animals and castles
 From the billowing cotton,
 Chasing away interrupting rascals.

But suddenly they change
 And all laughter says farewell.
 Bright blue has turned a morbid gray,
 The field above, a deep, black, well.

A Walk On the Beach At Sunrise

In the morning at dawn's first ray
 With the beginning of a new day,
 Soft, slippery sand beneath the feet
 Waves on the skin do meet,
 Here at nature's side
 In the sunrise.

A piece of castle, white and rough
 By time and by water has been buffed,
 A seagull's long cry
 So sad, piercing, and shy,
 The ocean breezes, light and crisp
 Dance about like a gentle mist.

Footsteps behind
 In a straight line,
 Reaching as far as the eye can see
 Over the sand, under the tree,
 Only to be erased by the night tide
 The tale of a morning's walk by the seaside.

Overworked/Underpaid

One new student once said this shortly after arriving at Heritage Hall: "Everyone's so close to each other, particularly the students with the faculty ... the kids here aren't just numbers, they're part of the family — it's really great."

Heritage Hall's warm family atmosphere is its most notable trait, in which the teachers are a key element. Hall teachers are the students' friends as well as their mentors — an interesting relationship, indeed. The classes are very small, enhancing the spirit of closeness. Teachers take an active part in every school activity — not just sponsoring, but actively participating with the students. This unity between the faculty and the student body encourages better learning and academic participation.

Mind you, students do not always think so positively of them. As the guides in students' intellectual pursuits, teachers must impose a great many restrictions for "your own good!"

Nonetheless, after a Charger has tossed his cap into the air, his high school teachers will live with his friends and good times in his memory.

Cramming!

Have you ever been up until the wee hours of the night studying for a major exam that will either make or break you? If you did not answer yes, you're not a student at Heritage Hall. Although school can be a lot of fun, there is no doubt that at times studying involves a lot of work. Most of the juniors and seniors, who are in advanced classes, will say that there is plenty of homework to be done most everyday.

However, it seems that students always seem to make studying bearable. Many people get together after school to study, but it always seems that more talking gets done. When you go down to the commons, no doubt you will be able to find someone doing some last minute cramming for a test next hour.

Being a student involves both hard work and persistence in maintaining high grades. There is, however, that feeling of relief you get when that test paper comes back with a great big "A"

Election '88

The week of February 29th through March 4 was dubbed Political Awareness Week at Heritage Hall. Representatives from both political parties were brought in to share their candidates' views on the social and economic issues of today. Present were representatives from the Bush, Dole, Kemp, Hart, Gephardt and Dukakis campaigns. Each representative tried to persuade the students to support their candidate by giving background information and a summary of what each had accomplished over the past several years. After speaking, the representatives took questions from the floor. Discussions, as well as debates, took place not only between representatives, but also between representatives and students.

Super Tuesday brought around a statewide primary and a straw election at Heritage Hall. Voter turnout was 54%, enough for a majority. Some students, not particularly liking any of the candidates on the ballot, took it upon themselves to write in their own. Among those receiving write-in votes were John Powell, Upper School history teacher, former president Richard Nixon and Lee Iacocca, president of Chrysler Corporation.

The Republican winner at Heritage Hall was Dole, who polled 57 votes. Bush was a close second with 48 votes. The Democratic race was won narrowly by Dukakis. One vote less gave Jackson second. In the state of Oklahoma, however, things turned out a bit differently. Bush won the Super Tuesday election for the Republicans and Senator Gore won the Sooner primary for the Democrats.

Head Of The Class

Continuing the outstanding tradition of Heritage Hall, the 1987-88 school year saw HH students gaining recognition in a multitude of areas. The awards won are not limited to those listed on these pages. This is a brief selection which tries to represent the excellence shown in every division by each student all year long.

Opening Night Jitters

This year, the drama department was forced to reduce the number of plays from three to one. This reduction was caused by the director, Mrs. Jamie Brewster-Pitt, leaving and the school having to find an outside director. The director selected was Miss Rhonda Clark, who chose "The Miss Firecracker Contest" as the play after the lack of interest for "Bus Stop". After two days of auditions, the cast was assembled. Players included Kenda Townsend, Elizabeth Reese, Eric Czerwinski, Laura Johnson, Greg Owen, and Laurel Cockrell.

After three weeks of strenuous rehearsals and set construction the production was ready. However, the opening was postponed from February 6-7 to February 10 because of illness in the cast. The two canceled performances were turned into open dress rehearsals.

Even after the rescheduling, the play was a great success.

STUCO

Student council- a group of individuals representative of the student body who are brought together for a common cause. The Student Council here at HH was no exception. Serving as the backbone of many of the school's events, the STUCO had another great year.

The year started off on a positive note with the Ice Cream Social in September. Ice cream, fun times, and summer memories were shared by all as students and faculty were able to meet new students to HH.

The Fifties was the theme for Homecoming this year making pink T-Birds and letter jackets a familiar sight on the HH campus. Class competitions included hair rolling, the balloon toss and a "black cow" contest.

STUCO also sponsored the annual Christmas Party. Chargers were able to bring the joys of Christmas to many children across the city who might not have otherwise enjoyed the season. Although Santa Claus was delayed several times due to bad weather, the spirit of the season was still present.

Powder Puff football was enjoyed by many of the girls at HH. It was a chance for the girls to try out their skills on the football field. In the final game, it was the Seniors who came out on top.

Now hear this- Student Council was once again able to organize many activities for the school and make the school year full of exciting events.

Three years ago Stan Fuller and a pioneering group of students brought back a student newspaper to Heritage Hall. The new publication was called The Hall Street Journal, and it swept the campus ("and we all know this campus needs sweeping").

This year's staff took on the difficult task of expanding the paper which was struggling to get off the ground. Through many long, grueling hours — all spent out of class — they sent it soaring.

Managing editor, Thomas Conner, said, "It's tough not having a newspaper class. Much stress."

But through ulcers and anxiety attacks, five issues of the paper came out this year.

Sponsor Mrs. Shoffner said, "They work very hard and it shows. It's worth it."

Services Rendered

The Service Club has sponsored a lot of exciting activities this year. These activities include get acquainted parties at the beginning of the year, collecting cans for Harvest II, donating Christmas candy and cookies to the Education and Employment Ministry, and donating over $200 to the Emergency Relief Fund at Mercy Hospital. The Sixth grade Service Club made Valentine boxes for the Canterbury Health Center, and along with the Middle School Honor Society, the Service Club helped sponsor the Toys for Tots program. Overall the Service Club has been a great influence in the Middle School.

Coach Bryan Phillips takes time from his personal life to contribute to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes program. The students usually meet at a members house and talk about issues that affect their every day lives. F.C.A. has been involved in the community by volunteering time to take the kids from the Genesis house skating and to go eat pizza a couple times. The students had a great time and they made a lot of kids very happy.

Commitment To Excellence

This year both the Art Club and Debate Club made valuable contributions to the name of Heritage Hall.

Every year the Art Club does its part to beautify the school by buying and decorating the Christmas tree for the Upper School Commons. The Art Club enjoys a high membership which allows it to collect dues to pay for the tree every year.

The Heritage Hall debate team enjoyed another year of rousing success. Many of its members placed high in several tournaments. Chris Man and Brian Robison took first in the N.F.L. District tournament out of 38 teams and Matt Copeland and Suzann Statham took second in the same tournament. Brian and Chris won first in the state and went to the National Speech Tournament for the second year in a row. This year Matt and Suzann both went to Nationals for the first time. Joel Muchmore and Sondra Russel also qualified for Nationals.

The Lincoln-Douglas debaters, Jennifer Conger and Morgan Beatty, both qualified for regionals and Doug Finke and Joyce Carlton made regionals for extemporaneous speaking.

Overall, one has to say that both of these clubs have done a wonderful job in adding to the "Commitment to Excellence" at Heritage Hall.

Making The Grades

This year, because of Mr. Embree's illness, almost every club rallied, and Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta and Science Club were no exception. Along with the annual big cookie sale during meeting period, Honor Society sold Christmas door knob decorations that included: lambs, pandas, and reindeers. There were also service projects that everyone had to help with. As usual, the most attended project was the Christmas Connection, when they worked voluntarily at Quail Springs selling and wrapping Christmas gifts for children to give their families. The other option was selling books for Friends of the Library at the fairgrounds.

Mu Alpha Theta made history this year by having a fund raiser which was not only for Mr. Embree's fund, but also to help pay for the annual pizza party in May for new members.

The yearly ski trip that the Science Club takes was as much fun this year as ever. Mr. Dawkins also went to Mexico to give underprivileged children candy and food. Science Club also put on a computer exhibition that the whole school could attend. Mr. Dawkins also took some students to tour the OSU Veterinary School.

All in all it seems that the academic clubs not only made the grade but had a lot of fun while doing so.

We Do More Than Speak

Language clubs play a vital role at Heritage Hall. The Spanish Club, which contains over 80 members, participated in a pinata and dance contest at OU and held several Spanish Club luncheons. The French Club contained well over 40 members. They held a fon-due party, a progressive dinner, and a crepe sale. They also sponsored an underprivileged family at Christmas and a gift exchange. The Latin Club contained nearly 20 people. The Latin II class went to a Junior Classical League meeting at the Skirvin Plaza which produced various results. As you can see, the language clubs at Heritage Hall contain nearly a half of the students in the upper school, and through numerous activities, the clubs contributed to the enhancement of the daily school life.

Slaves To The Music

This year's Heritage Hall chorus never needed to warm up for a performance — they were already red hot. Director Billie Lewis claimed that "this group of kids is the best this school has ever seen, and probably the best we will EVER see again."

The year's first gala event was a fund-raising performance to benefit the newly established Emergency Relief Fund for the school's patrons and staff. After a dynamic show of patriotic and inspirational music, the chorus officers presented a check for over three thousand dollars to the fund's committee.

Then came the jolly old time of year, and when Christmas decorations rolled out, the HHall chorus rolled out with them. The Swing Choir sang for a typical busy schedule of dinners and luncheons around town, and the full chorus — both middle and upper schools — presented their annual festive Christmas Show.

Each January talented students come from across the state — by a rigorous audition — to participate in the prestigious Oklahoma All-State Choir. HHall sent five talents to this event: Lance McDaniel, Thomas Conner, Chris Mock, Christie Gilbert, and Brad King attended as an alternate.

After a spring contest season, in which HHall singers raked in their usual plethora of medals and awards for superior vocal performances, preparation began for two exciting trips — the annual tour (this year to Kansas City) and the Swing Choir's smashing debut at the ISAS Fine Arts Festival.

The year closed with an exceptional Spring Show and a tearful farewell to the seniors, who Billie said she'll miss a great deal.

Ahhhh! We Did It!

How do you recognize a staff member of the Heritage Hall Cavalier? Listen for their high-pitched call "Aaaaaa!" They are a unique breed of high schoolers that hibernate in room 145, jabbering in a wild, unintelligible dialect, emerging only to get more aspirin or caffeine. The leaders of this stressful species are easily identified — they've pulled out all their hair.

It only took a few weeks into the school year for the Cavalier staff to dub the project "Yearbook in Hell." Every staffer soon awakened to the upcoming load of tedium and frustration and many missed deadlines.

Jostens sponsor to Heritage Hall, Matt Kutch, did his best to help the Cavalier staff stay on schedule. "You all are the craziest staff I've got among my seventy-two schools," he once reported, and then gave another status report on the Georgia Bulldog dogs.

Each day in the brightly-lit Yearbook room, Miss Canfield began with her pleading words: "OK, guys, we've got to get serious . . . ." And as the staff filed out at 3:10 pm, another fearful glance was cast at the calendar.

"With nine weeks left in the year, your frazzled yearbook sponsor realizes we've over half the book to finish, but we'll do it, won't we?" Miss Canfield asked.

"Hey, Miss C, don't worry!" came the reply. Indeed, the dedicated last-minute work succeeded in producing this fine memorial book.

Scouts Honor

On my honor I will try ... The familiar phrase that begins the Girl Scout pledge is one that is sure to remain in the minds of many Chargers in years to come. The Brownies and Scouts here at HH enjoyed endless days of fun activities. Meeting each week, the troops played games, designed projects and had an overall good time.

For the Brownies, the year was filled with many special events. In October, the Brownies brought their pillows to school and had a lock-in in the gym. In February, the girls hosted a Father-Daughter Banquet for their special dad. With spring, came an International Festival in April. Food, games, and costumes from countries around the world were enjoyed by the "travelers". "The International Festival was my favorite thing this year"-Holly Clifton.

The end of the year was topped off by an adventurous camp out. The memories that were made will surely have special meaning for every troop member in the years ahead.

Captivating spectacles of fellow humans persecuting themselves

"Though a lot of hard work is involved, playing sports at Heritage Hall has proved to be one of the most rewarding experiences of my life."

-Nicole Shapard

"Sports are important activities which prepare you for later life. Being part of an athlete team creates a bond between the participants not produced by any other organization."

Hard Work Brings Reward To Varsity District Champions

From the beginning, this year's football team was faced with many challenges. After losing many senior players, the team had to mold the talented inexperience of the younger players with the experience and toughness of the returning starters. It took more than a few tough weeks of practice and several hours of offensive overtime, but the team finally merged into a coordinated unit. That is perhaps the most outstanding quality that this year's team possessed - the team played together.

The Charger offense was led by senior tailback Steve Magness, who broke several rushing records this year. Steve had 2,103 yards total and set the new season rushing record with that mark. He also holds the second-highest career rushing record at Heritage Hall.

This year's team boasted an outstanding defensive unit, which held most of the Charger opponents to fewer than two touchdowns a game.

The team, as a whole, did an outstanding job, winning the District Championship by beating Hennessey in the final game of the season, which led them into the play-offs. The highlight of the season was the fourth consecutive win over Casady. The team played 11 games total and finished with an 8-3 record. The team lost its first play-off game mainly because the team had lost several players due to injuries.

This year's 2A-1 District Selections were as follows: Coach of the Year - Rod Warner, Player of the Year - Steve Magness, Offensive Lineman of the Year - Frank Miskovsky, Line-backer of the Year - Mike Howell.

The All District Players from

Heritage Hall were David Thielke, Trey Moran, Jeff Love, Steve Chard, and Lance McDaniel.

Coach Warner added, "The 1987 season was a great success. Not because of wins and losses (8-3) or even the District Championship. Our success was due to our young men believing in each other, caring for one another and playing with great intensity. The Charger Pride was very evident every ballgame this year. It was a fun and exciting year to be around Heritage Hall Charger Pride football."

"When someone hears of my rushing stats, they think 'Hey, that's a good back.' They should say, 'He has good blockers.' A back is not made from cuts and speed, he's made from his blockers. People should also realize that football's emphasis shouldn't be on a winning season but teaching people lessons they can use for the rest of their lives."

Junior Varsity Against The Odds.

This year's Junior Varsity squad faced some tough challenges. One main drawback was the team had a great deal of younger players, mainly freshmen and sophomore's. Although they possessed spirit and the desire to win, they lacked the experience needed to win most ball games. The team had a great deal of talent and it showed on the football field. The Junior Varsity team beat 2 out of the 5 teams they played, and had close games with both Casady and McGuinness.

POWDERPUFF

Seniors Unseat Champions

The 1988 Powder Puff Football season kicked off May 4. The first games played were Juniors vs sophomores and seniors vs freshmen.

The juniors triumphed over the sophomores 2-10, while the freshmen fell to the seniors 2-0. This set up the championship match between the juniors and seniors. With their big win over the sophomores, the juniors were confident of a big victory. The seniors, however, weren't about to give their rivals a victory for the second year in a row.

The final game, May 5, revealed both teams in full spirits. Armed with bandanas and face paint, the juniors kicked off for the '88 title. However, this rematch of last year's final game had one small twist. The juniors fumbled in the endzone to give the seniors a 2-0 lead. That was all it took. The juniors never scored and their hopes of a second championship went down the drain, thus making the class of '88 the only class to win the championship by a score of 2-0 in both games they played.

Taking The Knocks

When you go to a Middle School football game you notice that the guys who are out there playing on the field are not real large, that is, they usually aren't. However, this year's eighth grade team was an exception. This year's team saw a lot of talent with six new eighth grade records being set. Fredi Dahr had 513 yards rushing, and tailback Justin Stamatis set two records with 10 touchdowns and 247 return yards. One of this year's standouts was Parker Tate at tight end, who caught 11 passes and who had 205 yards receiving. Defensively, Jeb Cook, linebacker, broke all previous tackling records with the new record of 94 tackles.

When asked about the team's performance, Coach Kirk said, "We started out slow, but we finished strong. We won the last five games straight."

It appears some tough players are headed to high school football next year.

This year, our seventh grade team turned in a 2-4 record with losses of close scores. As always, the seventh grade is a learning year, and this year's team made a great deal of improvement. Tailback Martin Smith set a rushing record of 552 yards, and linebackers Martin Smith and David Wygant set tackling records of 89 and 49 tackles respectively.

Playin' Above The Rim

Heritage Hall Basketball teams have always been above average and the popularity of these games among students has always been high. This year's team was no exception. They possessed a great deal of talent and although the team's record didn't show it, they had a very good season. Anyone who attended the games this year saw many close scores with last second losses being the rule for the majority of the games.

Attendance and fan support was outstanding and the student body attended nearly every away game.

On the sad side, this season marked the end of Mr. Powell's coaching career at Heritage as he decided to concentrate his efforts on his new duties as chairman of the history department. Coach Powell summed up this year's season as follows:

"The 1987-88 Chargers finished with a 12-11 record. The team was led by Johnny Cromling's 21 points per game average. Lance McDaniel and Steve Chard each averaged over 9 rebounds per game. Although the Chargers were a bit below normal standards of wins and losses, we were as competitive as any of the past Charger teams. Teamwork was the password for the 87-88 Chargers."

The team lost a heartbreaker to Deer Creek in district playoffs to end the season which was best described by senior Steve Chard. "This year definitely had its ups and downs, but my three years with the varsity program under Coach Powell couldn't have been more enjoyable or profitable anywhere in the state."

Shoot To Kill

The 1988 girl's varsity basketball team epitomized the saying "never give up". Each game the girls showed a great deal of spirit and their efforts were never questioned. This year's team record didn't show the hard work and devotion that the girls put into the season but Head Girls Varsity basketball coach Fent had this to say about the team. "The 1987-88 basketball season coupled a wealth of senior leadership and experience with junior/sophomore grit and determination to meet a tough, competitive schedule head on. Not only did these athletes work hard — they played hard. They set the stage for future teams. They are the standard of comparison."

The team suffered a setback with the loss of key player Candi Garcia due to an injury early in the season. Among the teams' three wins were victories over tough teams such as OCS and Bethany. This year's team starters were seniors Nicole Shapard, Christen Conger, Candi Garcia, Shelly Stevens and Shanna Stout. They were joined by juniors Lisa Merrell and Heather Harward, as well as several sophomores moved from the JV team

The girl's games had a great deal of fan support and the student body always came through with a great deal of enthusiasm. Even away games which usually have poor attendance saw a good turn-out of fan support.

The girls team finished off the season with a win over Bethany in their last game in front of a home crowd. They were, however, beaten in their final three away games which included a loss to Milwood to end a season of disappointment and promise for the future.

Hoops & Shoots

The 87-88 edition of Heritage Hall's Junior Varsity Basketball provided a learning experience for everyone involved. The players gained valuable experience that will be helpful for those who continue onto Varsity and College Basketball. A problem both girls and boys teams encountered was scheduling enough games. This resulted in the boys team scheduling many games with Casady.

Enthusiasm for the JV program was on an all-time high. In most years, the boys team has had approximately six to ten players. This year, there were fourteen players on the team which was a tremendous improvement. The girls team had an unusually high number as well.

The records of the teams were not as coaches would have liked them to be. However, there were a large number of inexperienced players on both teams.

Nevertheless, the 87-88 version of HH's JV provided excitement that none of the players will ever forget.

Unsung Heroes

Those who participate in freshman basketball often feel like unsung heroes. They no longer receive the attention they got the previous year, when they were the talk of the middle school.

Nevertheless, these freshmen basketballers worked harder than they ever had before. The girls practiced in the lower school gym until 4:00 p.m. It was then the boy's turn. They often practiced until later than 6:00 p.m.

The boys basketball team missed many of its players during the pre-season. This was due to the extended football season. Once the real season got underway, however, the team was able to jell and experienced a successful season. The leading scorer on the team was Chris Willis.

The girls basketball team also had a successful and rewarding season. Among the leading scorers was Elise Fineberg. With a bit more practice and experience these freshman basketball teams will be very skillful in coming years.

Freethrow, Dribble, Rebound Each of these words was drilled into the vocabulary of the Middle School basketball teams. Practicing for weeks in the gym paid off for the Chargers as the eighth grade teams each had winning seasons.

Now hear this, the eighth grade boys team was undefeated through their entire Middle School career winning 24 straight games! Jeb Cook led the team with an average of 15 points a game. In addition to their undefeated season, the boys won first place in the Heritage Hall Festival.

The eighth grade girls team also had a successful season winning 10 of their games. Jennifer Evans led the girls with an average of 10 points a game. In addition, she had 35 steals this season. Julie Cromling was the leading rebounder. The girls team was also able to receive an impressive 2nd place in the Heritage Hall

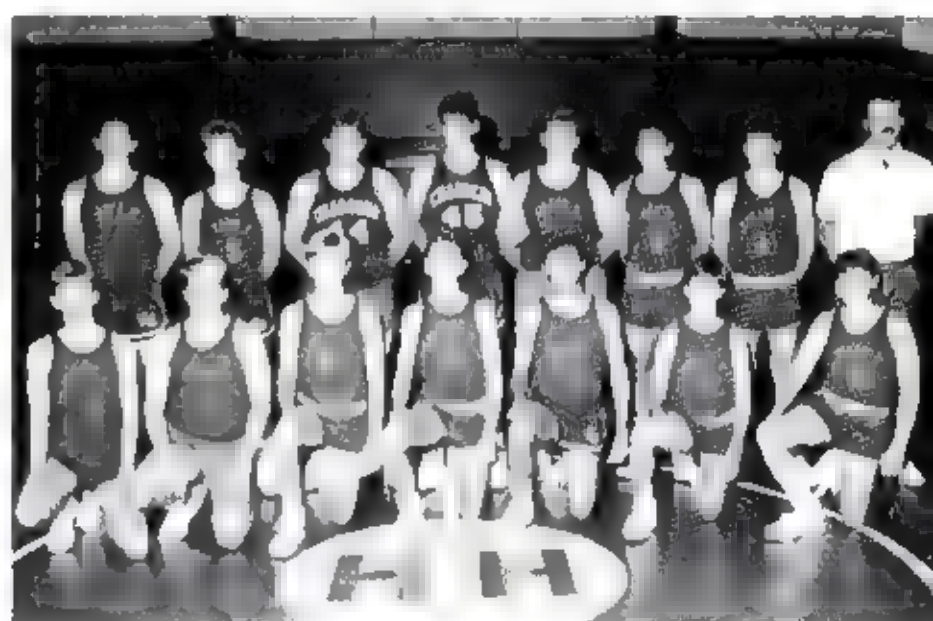

Festival

The seventh grade team showed promising talent this year. Although their season was rough each team member was able to improve his or her skills preparing for next year. Jason LeBoeuf led the boys team in total points with an average of 11 points a game. Tamara Parker led the girls in total points and also freethrows.

WRESTLING

The Magnificent Seven

The phrase "Good things come in small packages" exemplifies this year's varsity wrestling team. What they lacked in participation they made up for in skill. With two returning seniors, the team consisted of seven core members: Steve Magness, John Bartley, Craig Taylor, Kevin Coit, Chak Gude, Daniel Stover, and Vien Lam. Having to forfeit six of the thirteen weight divisions at each duel made the Chargers the underdog each time they competed. Nevertheless, while the duel record did not reflect it, individually the wrestlers were outstanding in their field. Vinh Lam, Jeff Cheatham, Kelly Turner, Rich Newton, Kevin Rawlings, and Steve Schmidt, all freshman, added their spirit to the varsity team, even though they competed on the Middle School team.

The varsity team had three wrestlers qualify for State: Steve Magness, John Bartley, and Craig Taylor. Of those three, Craig Taylor placed third at 141 pounds, and Steve placed third at 168 pounds. John Bartley, co-captain, added: "Wrestling has been a big part of my life the past eight years. This last year was really special. We pulled together as a team and stood out as individuals. We worked very hard and we appreciated the support we received from friends, parents, the school and especially the Wrestling Cheerleaders."

Boys Of Spring

Anna Robertson

The 1988 edition of Heritage Hall Varsity Baseball team contained only four seniors. This inexperience resulted in a lack of depth which led to many close losses. However, there are advantages to an inexperienced team. The team made up for lack of experience with talent and enthusiasm. This also gave many sophomores and freshman the opportunity to play. In fact, about half the starting team were freshman and sophomores.

There were several stand-out performances on the baseball team this year. Chris Cleburn led the team with a .412 batting average. David Portman and Chris Willis collected the most wins with two each.

With the nucleus of the team returning, next year promises to be a very successful season. Only two starting players will be lost while the rest of the team will stay intact. Since many underclassmen gained playing time this year, the team will be very experienced next year, which hopefully will result in many more wins.

Minor Leagues

Although wins and losses are important, most coaches will say that it is most important in Middle School athletics to gain experience and practice. This is just what was gained by those participating in Middle School baseball. Although the limelight did not shine as brightly on their performance as they would have liked it to, it did, however, give them time to practice the fundamentals needed for baseball in high school.

Although the team played only three games, many hours of practice were put in by every single member of the team. This gave everybody a chance to learn and refine their talents. With the teaching of Coach Brown and Coach Stephenson every member of the team was able to improve. As you can see, the success of a season is not only measured in wins and losses.

Running Away With The Gold

The past four years have proven to be growing and successful years for the Heritage Hall track team. This year was no exception.

Lead by an outstanding group of seniors, the track team placed in the top three in four out of eight meets, won regionals and then went on to take the state championship.

The team took first at both the Jenks and Bristow meets, took second at Purcell and finished third at Sulphur. The team received consistent performances all season from Brent Johnson and Mike Howell with seniors Trey Moran, Lance McDaniel, Frank Miskovsky, Steve Magness, and Blake Pellow adding vital points to the team's score by consistently placing in their individual events.

In the state track meet the team won the 2-mile relay with runners Brent Johnson, Kevin Hagan, Trey Moran and Lance McDaniel. The mile relay team placed fourth with runners Frank Miskovsky, Trey Moran, Jason Padgett and Steve Magness. Individually, Brent Johnson won state in the 3200 and the 1600 meter runs. Mike Howell won state in both the discus and the shot put. Steve Magness won second place in the long jump and took fifth in the 110 high and 300 meter hurdles. Sophomore Kevin Hagan won second place in the 1600 meter race along with being a part of the first place 2-mile relay team.

The girls varsity track team added a lot to the track program this year. Marnie McGee placed at regionals and Jennifer Nelson placed at state.

The team members' individual point scores along with the strong placings of the individual team races all combined to bring the team to another consecutive state championship.

Off And Running

This year the Middle School track team enjoyed a successful season. By running endless laps around the track or hurdling numerous hurdles the track team was able to improve and expand their talent. Several new records were set for the school by the track team. Julie Cromling broke both the 800 meter and the 1600 meter records to establish new school times. Also, Katie Gumerson, Devon Roberts, Gretchen Kattke, and Julie Cromling set a new school record in the 3200 meter relay.

The track team honored its members at the awards assembly with the following presentations: 8th Grade Outstanding Performers-

Julie Cromling and Hans Burger, 8th grade Charger Pride-Marisa Hudson, 8th Grade Fighting Heart-Dan Werich, 7th Grade Outstanding Performers-Tamara

Parker and Martin Smith, 7th Grade Charger Pride-Katie Gumerson and Gretchen Kattke, 7th Grade Fighting Heart-Todd Roe

Over The Hills And Through The Woods

The Fall of 1987 brought a new sport to Heritage Hall. The girls fielded their first Cross Country team. The boys' Cross Country team also came back in full swing. The alumni to the team include Brent Johnson, Van Ham, John Boggess, and Kevin Hagan. In all, nine boys earned letters. Brent Johnson was the team captain. The girls' team was very successful. There were eleven members on the team, six of whom earned letters. Jennifer Nelson went to state.

The season was highlighted when Brent Johnson won his second consecutive State Title, after missing much of the season due to illness. The State meet was held at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa. The best runners throughout the state competed in this annual event.

Heritage Hall has had two State championships in its first two years of existence. With 21 members in all, Cross Country has established itself solidly in the athletic program.

SOCCER

Get Your Kicks

In a year that was anticipated to be a "building year" the soccer team had as many wins as any previous Heritage Hall team. While the team will lose its senior players, including captains Jon McClure, Lane Rubrecht, and John Bartley, the team accomplished many feats during the '87-'88 season. The team was fifth out of seven in district play with the first four schools being 5A. They held Moore, the district champion, to a 1-0 score, and had a final record of 4 and 6. With many of the players returning next season, the soccer team at Heritage Hall will continue to prove themselves to be a force that can't be taken lightly.

Charger Power

In the circle of hugs and tears that followed the first place victory in Tulsa, a sense of accomplishment and teamwork was felt throughout as a realization of just how much a team could achieve by working together slowly spread over each of the Heritage Hall volleyball players. This feeling later carried them to their next climax of the season: another first place trophy won while many of the star players were singing with the chorus and were unable to attend.

Despite the few lost matches, the season progressed fairly well, and was realized nicely through the regional games. Putnam County North was the challenging team, going in with an attitude of certain victory. They were thoroughly shocked by the exemplary Charger skills, and though the scoreboard read Putnam as the victor, I myself, as a member of the team, can honestly say that if victory were measured through hard work and sportsmanship, Heritage Hall would have blown them away.

Perhaps Coach Webster sums it up the best when she said, "What a super year for the Charger volleyball! Exhibiting great enthusiasm and growing intensity, this year's squad achieved much success. We posted a winning record for the fourth year in a row, beat Casady 3 times, and captured the championship trophy at two tournaments- the first ones ever for Heritage Hall volleyball! With these lofty standards to guide us, and a large number of experienced players returning, we are already eagerly awaiting next season."

Swinging Into Action

golf (golf,gôf): A game played on a course having nine or eighteen holes, the object being to propel a small ball with the use of a club into each hole with as few strokes as possible.

On a sunny afternoon in Spring any member of the Charger golf team could be seen on the various courses across the city. Whether hitting balls across the range or out on the back nine, the Charger team was always hoping for those double birdies.

Although the beginning of the year was slow for the Chargers, they still managed to pull through to victory. In April, the team placed second in the sectional tournament. The team then went on to place an impressive fourth place in the Division 1 tournament.

The month of May, started off victorious for the Charger team when they were able to win the regional tournament held in Alva, Oklahoma. This win enabled the team to compete in the state tournament held in the middle of May. At the state tournament, amidst the best in the state, our Charger team was able to earn an impressive fourth place.

Three seniors were on the Charger team this year, Chris Champlin, David Stewart, and Scot Stevens. Each senior was honored for his contribution at the Spring Sports Banquet. Other Team members included Mike Hillman and Rich Newton.

Now hear this-reflecting back on the year team members had their own views of the season:

"This year the golf team seemed to once again show its strength. Through hard work and lots of practice we were able to do pretty well at the state tournament. In general, we had a great season and I look forward to next year."-Mike Hillman. Chris Champlin had his own thoughts "Golf was a great way to get out of the yearbook and satisfy my pride credit all at once. In my opinion, next year's season looks bleak without my team."

Overall the team had a great season with a competitive win at state. The golf team once again lifted Charger pride.

Aces Up Their Sleeves

The lady Chargers finished with a 11-5 record, and even though this was the most losses they have received in many years, they were still able to come away with a regional and state championship. Nicole Shapard led the Chargers with a state championship at number 1 singles and Suzanne Noftsgen at number 2 singles. Christie Gilbert and Julie Stempel at number 2 doubles finished state runners up, while Wendy Carmichael and Mary Easton finished fourth at number 1 doubles.

This was the fourth state championship in a row, and 6 of the last 7 for the lady Chargers. Nicole and Suzanne were selected all-state, while Nicole received special honors by being picked for the Oklahoma West All Star Team and Price All-American Team.

"With the return of only 3 state players from last year and a completely new look for our doubles team, the girls did an incredible job of rallying around the HH tennis tradition to claim yet another title. Replacing Nicole will be almost impossible, because she was such a great team player and she deserves the best because she is the best," Coach Vilaflore expressed.

It seemed to be an even more impossible task for the boys, because they had 5 new faces this year and had to overcome numerous injuries. Yet they still managed to finish as state runners up. Leading the chargers were state champion Brian Bethea and Lance Vervack at number 1 doubles. State runners up were Brian Robison at number 2 singles and Corey Metz and Randy Kerr at number 2 doubles. Finishing third at number 1 singles was Jim Berry. Brian B., Lance, and Brian R. were selected to the West All-State Squad.

Coach Vilaflore said, "The Chargers return everyone but Brian Robison and should be a force to be reckoned with for next year."

Love Is In The Air

"With only 3 returning starters from last year's teams, the Middle School Chargers were still able to compete and win. Retiring starters were Derek Man, Christina Lang, and Holly Thomas. Although inexperience played a big part for our season, the seventh graders learned enough to carry on with them the knowledge and pride for the following season," commented Coach Villafior on the Middle School tennis teams.

In general, the team had a great season with the girls beating both Western Heights and John Marshall. The guys also had close matches against Casady and Western Heights. Heritage Hall Middle School tennis hopes to do as well next year.

CHEERLEADERS

Charger Cheers

H-E-R-I-T-A-G-E, Heritage Hall is great! Cheerleaders have chimed such chants at games since the games themselves began. But this year, in addition to their repertoire of spirit raising yells, the cheerleaders joined in the spirit of competition themselves, dedicating their talents to further Heritage Hall's commitment to excellence.

After attending cheerleading camp at O.U. last summer, the varsity squad carried home in addition to the spirit stick, three superior ribbons, one excellent ribbon, and the Super Star award, the satisfaction of being chosen to compete for the Award of Excellence among eleven other squads. Daniel Stover, Sarah Jackson, and Marnie McGee were three of the eighteen All-American Finalists chosen from 650 cheerleaders. Marnie won the award for the second year in a row. The junior varsity also had a lucrative week, winning superior ribbons, and the Super Star award. Heritage Hall's eighth grade squad brought home superior ribbons and excellent ribbons.

At the Regional competition in Norman, the varsity squad qualified for the second time to attend the National Cheerleaders' Association's High School National Championship. This year's competition, held in Dallas, proved to be quite a success for Heritage Hall. In the Co-Ed Varsity division, the squad was ranked third in the nation. All in all, it was a year worth cheering for!

The Art Of Being Unique

The students of Heritage Hall are definitely given to having fun on their off-school time and many of us do so in the way of individual sports. Students are active in both winter and summer activities. Thus, the board found it necessary to have a mid-winter break in order to facilitate the number of patrons who regularly go snow skiing.

Individual Sports are a basic fact in almost all of our lives, you probably wouldn't have to ask more than three people in one of our halls before you found a golfer, a tennis player, or a skier.

The activities and individual sports that we participate in range from bicycling and horse-back riding to surfing and scuba-diving.

During the spring and summer months you will undoubtedly find some Heritage students water skiing on one of the states' lakes. Many of us are avid water skiers and lake goers and for those of us who don't ski there's always the alternative of laying out on the tanning deck with a cold one soakin' in some rays. Yeah. That's an individual sport! Some of us have even carried our water extreme by way of jet-skiing, surfing, and scuba-diving. Spring and summer definitely are the times of the year when most of us indulge in our individual sports.

Many of our students have shown themselves to be more than just novices in their field of individual sports by winning state championships in both tennis and cross country racing.

Almost any one of us has a certain activity or individual sport that we seasonally indulge in whether it be swimming, hunting, skiing, tennis, golf, jet-skiing, diving or whatever. The people of Heritage Hall are definitely given to participating in their own personal style of fun and relaxation.

Students Get Voice In Search Decision

During 1987-88, Heritage Hall was involved in a search for a new headmaster to replace Dr. David Goodsell. The process involved a great deal of study and contemplation. Thus it was a concern of the students that they have a voice in the decision.

Their worries were appeased with the appointment of a thirteen member panel to represent students. These student representatives were Thomas Conner, Steve Magness, June Hammett, Christen Conger, Susan Archibald, Brad King, Katie Townley and four alternating middle school students.

Each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for two weeks, this student committee met with the headmaster candidates and discussed the different aspects of Heritage Hall, while, in turn, learning about the candidate himself.

After this process ended, the student committee met with the Board of Trustees Search Committee and gave their opinion of each candidate.

It was reassuring to know that the Board is interested in the students' opinions. The student voice counted equally in the choice of finalists, and, ultimately, the candidate selected to be the next headmaster of Heritage Hall.

FINE ARTS WEEK

APRIL 11-16

The Second Annual Fine Arts Week was designed to bring the lower, middle, and upper schools together in an appreciation of the various aspects of the arts. Students were offered several different performances including Shakespeare in the Park (an acting company which performed excerpts on love from Shakespearean plays), and BLAC Moves, Too, a dance company which incorporates ancient tribal dance with modern dance in a unique and exciting combination.

Students were also able to participate in workshops with artists, playwrights, and a professional choreographer. On Saturday, these workshops were repeated and offered to the general public.

The workshops and performances allowed the students to witness the work and skill that the artists possessed and in doing so to increase their awareness of the importance of the arts to our society.

THE CONGO A. Bostic, director of BLAC Moves, Too, interprets a river in his medley of modern dance.

This panel was done for a contest by these U.S. students. It won honorable mention. This was a Youth Arts Month Airport Panel.

Club

Since the very first day their children stepped into the Heritage halls, the Mothers of '88 have been instrumental in the success and good times the Class of '88 has had. From the routine jobs at the cafeteria, library, concession stands and the student store to organizing the Halloween Haunted Houses, Christmas parties, costumes for Lower School shows and the recent prom and graduation parties, our mothers have devoted countless hours and dollars, time and money we could never hope to repay except with our undying love and gratitude

Thanks Moms!

SUMMER CAME EARLY for Chris Champin Around November ... ?

MALE SUPREMACY IS F@%K! Sarah Jackson assures John Bartley. Does Craig Taylor agree?

GOODBYE, DR. GOODSSELL. Students attend ceremonies on Dr. Goodsell Appreciation Day

Lockers swing loosely in the dim corridors. Silence echoes in the buildings that summer has emptied. But if you listen carefully you can hear the voices of every Charger who ever roamed the H Halls.

The 1987-88 school year was filled with triumphs and losses, joy and sadness. We gained new faces and lost some cherished old faces. Through it all, the Charger spirit of excellence has prospered and grown.

We end this year feeling pride in ourselves and our Heritage Hall heritage.

What No All!

The Yearbook Staff would like to thank Wagner Studio, Candida Collier, and Josten's representatives Matt Kutch and Bob Vukas for their help in the production of this book.

The 19th volume of the Cavalier was printed by Josten's Yearbook Company, Topeka, Kansas, with a press run of 700 copies of the 200 page book. Eighty pound glass paper was used at a 9 X 12 trim size. The copy was written in Avant Garde 10 and 12 point. The captions were at 8 point and the kickers were 9 point in bold type. Headlines varied in style and point throughout the book. The cover was royal blue with silkscreened cover art and gold foil lettering. The endsheets were T-540 navy fading to snow white.

The books sold for $20 without and $23 with names. The seniors each paid $20 extra to finance their color section.
